Autism Services, Inc. Announces Staff Appointment Springville, New York Resident Named Employment Services Coordinator

Williamsville, New York – (July 13, 2015) – Autism Services, Inc. (ASI) recently named Jeff Miller, a human services professional for more than 25 years, the agency’s Employment Services Coordinator.

Mr. Miller is responsible for coordinating all employment and vocational services for Autism Services.

Additionally, he searches for, and works with businesses to secure volunteer and paid employment opportunities, as well as coordinates the successful placement for participants of the agency’s Education Program and Day Habilitation Program. Mr. Miller also serves as a liaison between ASI and all work-experience sites.

Prior to joining Autism Services, Mr. Miller served as Coordinator of Community Based Programs at the Cantalician Center for Learning, as well as Supported Employment Coordinator at Community Services for the Developmentally Disabled.

A graduate of SUNY Empire State College, Mr. Miller holds a Bachelor of Arts in Historical Studies and is the author of six books, including the soon-to-be released “Pop Warner: A Life on the Gridiron.” He resides in Springville, New York, with wife Cathaline and son, Benjamin.
