Autism Services, Inc. Resource Center To Host Employment Workshop Presentation is Free and Open to the Public

Williamsville, New York – (October 14, 2015) – Autism Services, Inc. (ASI) recently announced an upcoming workshop to take place at the Autism Services, Inc. Resource Center, located at 97 Main Street in the Village of Hamburg, New York.

On Tuesday, October 20, 2015 from 6:00-8:00 p.m., Veronica E. Federiconi, Autism Service's Inc.'s Executive Director and Jeffrey Miller, the agency's Employment Services Coordinator will co-present, Employment Opportunities for People with Autism. This workshop will focus on the transitional period after graduation from school. Topics to be discussed will include programs and services offered to those in transition, options available through New York State, and preparation for employment. Ms. Federiconi and Mr. Miller will also emphasize that the key is treating each person as an individual, building on their strengths, abilities, skills and interests and avoiding assumptions and limitations.

This workshop is free and open to the public; however, anyone interested in attending is asked to contact the Resource Center at sspaulding@autism-services-inc.org or call 716.992.0131.
